PRACTICE AREA

Title Insurance Companies and Abstractors

The real estate market can be a volatile place. Professionals have to choose to stay the course or change business models to adapt to the changing times. Whether it's the refinance wave or new construction, each segment of the market has its own risks.

Title insurance companies and abstractors are vital to making sure everyone within the real estate buying process has accurate information. If a mistake is made the consequences can range in scale, but to the affected person, these errors are always big. That's where claims start.

Whether a claim deals with identifying liens or judgments, incorrect legal descriptions, or other ownership issues, we ensure your interests are accounted for and represented, every time.
