Home Inspectors

Home inspectors are part of the team involved in helping people realize their dreams of home ownership.

As any home inspector knows, if something is overlooked during inspection, a sale may be put on hold or canceled, increasing the risk of legal and financial entanglements.

With states increasing their regulation of home inspectors, it's important to have an attorney who understands the industry and its changing atmosphere. Our attorneys have the industry-specific knowledge to defend home inspectors against professional liability claims.
