

PRACTICE AREA

Transportation and Trucking

When it comes to trucking and transportation, our attorneys are with you from the start, emphasizing early response to losses. Our trucking and transportation attorneys are on call 24/7 to respond to serious accidents and emergencies by visiting accident scenes to gather and preserve evidence. This helps lay the groundwork for a careful investigation and vigorous claim defense. We have an established emergency response protocol, and will work with a team of accident reconstructionists, field investigators, and criminal defense attorneys, when needed, to immediately respond to trucking and other transportation accidents and emergencies.

Having comprehensive knowledge of the Federal Motor Carrier Safety Regulations means we are more than capable of dealing with hours-of-service issues; drug and alcohol testing; driver qualification, hiring, training, supervision, retention and discipline; loading and unloading; and numerous other issues, both in the initial investigation and in any resulting litigation.

Our trucking and transportation clients include self-insured trucking companies, truck insurers, shipping and delivery companies, bus companies, business and commercial auto insurers and insureds, and other members of the transportation industry.

With Wallace Saunders, you get the skillful representation you need to get your business back on the road.
